Orland Park Hires Engineers For Sewer-Water Program

Orland Park Hires 5-36 p1 NB
The Orland Park village board has cleared away the preliminaries in a proposed sewer and water improvement program and has hopes of being in a position to take bids by early fall.

At its regular meeting on Monday night the board voted to enter into a contract with DeSoto, McCabe Associates for engineering services.

The board is asking that Mark Lovejoy of that firm, who has been serving in the capacity of village engineer, be assigned to the task of designing the system and preparing the plans and specifications. Lovejoy, they pointed out, is familiar with the village and its problems.

Besides laying out a sewer system for the village, the engineers will also develop plans to improve the water system.

With the population growth resulting in the community another well is needed and probably will be located in the Orland Park Hills area.

The board has received some complaints from persons in Orland Hills development of a water shortage. The village plans to use the well on Beacon street, that was replaced by the one at the Shopping Plaza, in an endeavor to bolster the amount available in the mains.

June is generally a wet month but there has been a lack of rain this year and as a result many householders are sprinkling their lawns in order to save them.

This has used up a lot of water and as a result pressure has been low and in some instances there have been periods when there was practically no water for regular household needs.

Lovejoy has already started on the plans for the water and sewer system and as soon as he has sufficient figures to make an estimate of the cost this information will be passed on to Benjamin and Lang, a Chicago bond house that is making a study of the Orland situation. With the engineer's figures, plus their own estimates based on experience in such matters they will come up with a recommendation for a method to finance the program.

The Chicago Sanitary district is now building a sewage disposal plant at Orland Park so the village will be spared that expense in putting in a sewer system. Mokena had to build its own treatment works and so will Frankfort.

Orland Park, like other southwest communities, has been growing in population, and all indications point to a continuation of such growth. Such communities no longer can be served by a septic tank systems and sewers have become a necessity.

Mokena Area to Vote on Proposed District and Board Members

The question of establishing a park district in an area centering on Mokena will be decided Saturday, June 27.

The proposed district, which covers an area extending over a radius of about two miles, would deal with the maintenance and operation of the properties set up for park purposes within its boundaries.

In addition to voting on the question of forming a park district the voters will also ballot on candidates for the commission to operate same if established.

There are nine candidates for the five places on the board.

One polling place will serve the area. It will be located at the Cooper and Hostert garage on Front street, Mokena. The polling place will be open from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Order for the election was signed by County Judge John C. Cowing after a petition, bearing more than 200 signatures had been filed in the county court. Only 100 signatures were needed but more than twice that number were obtained. The petitions were circulated in all parts of the proposed district.

The Mokena Civic Association, which holds title to the land in Mokena Community park is prepared to deed the tract over to the park district if it is organized. There are approximately 28 acres in the tract.

Candidates for the park board listed alphabetically, are George Bennett, George Bills, George Carlisle, Clarence Lauffer, Mrs. Hugo (Florence) Niethammer, Arthur Omland, Kenneth Sherwood, Charles Swanberg, Edwin Yunker.

Students Display Much Talent in Collection of Select Writings

By ANNE RODGER

The second volume of "Patterns", a collection of select writings from Lincoln - Way high school's student body, prepared and written entirely by students, reveals a remarkable degree of writing talent.

It is an enlightening and refreshing experience to read the 1958-59 writings composed by sophomores, juniors and seniors.

The poetry and prose in serious, humorous and fantasy form descriptively portrayed by these teenagers, are outstanding in excellence of form and design.

Excerpts from the writings clearly indicate that many of these students will make journalism their careers, and some may conceivably become the foremost writers of tomorrow.

A junior writes this: "It is cold and dark. The snow swirls around you. It envelops you in its icy fingers.

You shiver. Then, through the darkness A light. You move faster. Looking forward to warmth, light And Home."

A sophomore's treatise on the destruction of Pompeii by the eruption of Mt. Vesuvius, uses excellent characterizations and vivid description as she portrays the city and its inhabitants in the hours preceding the disaster. In a professional style the climax is reached. Here are a few lines:

"The sun would shine for many thousands of years on that same rough country before history would take its course." and "A soft breeze from the sea came tip-toeing in to remove the last trace of the little city."

Characterization of an old woman reveals talent for fiction writing. Here is one descriptive sentence: "The old woman had dull colorless eyes; she was enormously fat, a plump pale fat that makes monstrous dimples on elbows and knuckles."

Here are some sentences by students, figuratively speaking:

"The spilled ink leaped up at the frightened child like a huge hand." "The dancing snowflakes pirouetted to earth like millions of butterflies." "Words like a hula hoop, large, smooth, and hollow." "The boy was as tall as the cookie jar, give or take a few first-edition books." "The teacher, a blacksmith of learning, pounding the nails of knowledge into the raw iron of youth."

The quality of the students' writing is encouraging in view of the criticism aimed at American schools and accusations that few students today understand their own language.

These young writers, and "Patterns" contains a large amount of select writings, too numerous to mention all, are a credit to their teachers and the school. They show imagination and maturity.

Here are the first and last verses of a poem by a sophomore girl:

"I really can't help but shed a tear, I have to admit, it does look queer, It doesn't fit, So here I sit, In my favorite dress of the previous year.

A. S. MacKenzie, Restaurateur, Dies Suddenly

Funeral services for Alexander S. MacKenzie, 60, Orland Park restaurateur who died suddenly Tuesday night, June 16, were held Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the Schmaedeke chapel with the Rev. Robert Plastow, pastor of the Orland Park Methodist church officiating. Interment was in Fairmont cemetery.

Mr. MacKenzie had suffered a fainting spell about 10 days ago and had made an appointment with his physician for a thorough checkup this week.

He worked at his regular tasks each day and Tuesday was no exception. His son, Col. Alexander S. MacKenzie, II, who had been stationed at Ft. Wainwright for the past four years, and his family came to Orland Park Monday for a visit with his parents.

There had been a family get-together Monday evening at the MacKenzie home and at that time Mr. MacKenzie professed to be feeling fine. He came home early Tuesday to visit with his son and later that evening returned to the restaurant to lock it up for the night. When he did not return immediately no one was alarmed because it was believed that he was talking to friends. The family went to bed.

Mr. MacKenzie Sr. awakened about 4 o'clock Wednesday morning and when she saw that her husband had not returned, roused their son. Since Mr. MacKenzie had taken the family car, Col. MacKenzie called Police Chief Eugene Yunker and reported the circumstances. Yunker came to the home and took the son to the restaurant. They saw the MacKenzie car parked by the establishment so they entered the place and there found Mr. MacKenzie in the kitchen. He apparently had been dead for several hours, the victim of a heart condition.

Mr. MacKenzie would have been 61 years old last Sunday as he was born in Chicago, June 21, 1898. He was married to Gertrude Gissrow, at Cedar Rapids, Ia., on Aug. 30, 1918. In 1925 the couple moved to Chicago where Mr. MacKenzie operated a restaurant. (Continued on Page 2)

Frankfort Moves To Annex 155-ac. McIntosh Tract

Tentative approval of the plat for the McIntosh subdivision north of Frankfort was given by the Frankfort village board at a special meeting Monday night.

Whereupon the subdividers gave the village $15,000 to apply on the cost of its sewer program with the agreement that $50,000 more would be paid when the plat and subdivision plans are finally approved.

This money will be paid as a sort of advance tap-in fee. The McIntosh company is to be reimbursed for the $65,000 it will have paid over to the village out of tap fees.

McIntosh is not a builder but a homesteader developer that sells to builders or prospective homeowners. In laying out the particular subdivision McIntosh will build the streets and install the sewer and water mains. The tract covers approximately 155 acres, north of U.S. 30 and west of U.S. 45.

This tract is to be annexed to Frankfort and a resolution approving such annexation and instructing village Attorney Albert H. Krusemark to draw up an ordinance to that effect was adopted by the village board.

Board members also discussed the possibility of getting some financial assistance on the sewer program with officials from the Superior Match Co. These men were rather vague in their replies and the only thing the board knows for certain is that no aid has been forthcoming to date.

There's also the matter of rehabilitating a drainage ditch that is still unsettled between the board and the match company. The engineers estimated the ditch job would cost around $4,100-including their fees-but when the bids came in, Blaine Saxton, of Mokena, was low with a figure under $3,000. The match firm had tentatively indicated it would contribute $1,500 toward the project when it was first brought up, based on the engineer's estimate.

Since the bid was so much under the estimate a spokesman for the match company indicated that its share of the cost should be reduced. At the meeting Monday it was explained formally that with engineering fees and other costs added to the price of the actual work the total would amount to around $3,800 and the village would like to have the match company's share remain at $1,500.

No decision has been reached by the company. The ditch parallels Maple street.

Niether did the match company make any commitment on a proposal to share a part of the expense of opening up Utah street between Locust and Maple but indications were that it was not too interested on the grounds that present streets give adequate entry to the plant.

The village board is scheduled to meet next Monday night to discuss provisions of proposed new subdivision and zoning codes.

"Patterns" also contains a revision of Chaucer's writings as two girl students interpret them. Here is their revision of "The Squire."

"He was a real wow guy making all the girls swoon. His pop was a knight and he would be soon. He never chickened-out when it came to war, For he wanted all girls to know the score. The juke joint rocked when we sang "Stagger Lee", While he cut a rug with a doll called Marie. He was modest and helped anyone in need, And at his dad's table he cut the meat."

Another girl student presented her life musically. The first sentences read: "I made my Vivace entrance on a Brilliant day in June. From there I Va Crescendoeo poco a poco," and the last sentence, "I shall have to make my Fine here for my life has been only 14 years long and it can't be spread out over any more paper."

TV to Telecast Dedication of Seaway Project

(CNS)—Two television programs next Friday, June 26, will be devoted to the Saint Lawrence seaway, residents of the seaway area were reminded Monday by the Great Lakes commission in its current newsletter.

"A two hour morning program by CBS will include the seaway dedication ceremonies," the commission stated. "In the evening NBC will present an hour long special seaway telecast."

The U. S. Navy's 28 ship Task Force 47 will arrive in Montreal Wednesday June 24 and will proceed into the Great Lakes with visits to 25 ports during a month long cruise. Five amphibious landings will be staged, including one at Chicago.

Other seaway news of local interest included the announcement by Cargill, Inc., that a 3,000,000 bushel addition will be made to the grain elevator terminal on the Calumet river. This will bring the capacity to 20,000,000 bushels, reported to be the largest on the Great Lakes. The expansion is needed to facilitate movement of grain thru Chicago to Cargill's 12,500,000 bushel export elevator being built on the lower St. Lawrence river at Baie Cemeau, Quebec.

Hearings on the pilotage bill before the House committee on merchant marine and fisheries May 19-21 saw increased opposition to the Coast Guard proposal to require foreign-flag vessels to carry a special pilot thruout their stay on the Great Lakes, the commission noted. Two other federal agencies, the depts. of state and commerce, urged an amendment making pilotage compulsory only in restricted waters, consisting of St. Regis to Lake Ontario; in the Welland canal; from Southeast shoal in Lake Erie to Sarnia; and in the connecting waters between Lakes Huron and Superior.

Community park is now maintained by voluntary donations from various organizations but an uncertain income makes it difficult to operate the park or any recreation program, those favoring the district point out. If a district is formed it can levy a small tax that will provide a regular and sufficient income to develop a proper program.

Other communities in the area have problems arising from the maintenance of park lands within their borders and the proposed program for Mokena is being followed with interest.

Formation of a Mokena park district will mean improvement of present facilities so they can serve the entire area. Later, as the population of the district grows, other parks can be set up and the recreation program expanded, it was pointed out.

When cutting flowers, always use a sharp knife and cut the stems with a slanting motion instead of straight across. A slanting cut does not damage the plant tissue and enables the plant to take up water.

Name Changes But Not the River

By JOHN W. ALLEN
(So. Ill. Univ.)

The French spelled the name of the River Embarrass, and pronounced it Em-ber-RAH. The spelling remains the same but things have happened to the pronunciation. The English came and called it Em-BRAW. Now it is AM-braw. This strange name for a river is explained by the fact that its sluggishness, and countless bends filled with driftwood and snags, made navigation difficult enough to embarrass the best of boatmen.

Whatever the pronunciation, it still is a small, dull and muddy river that meanders hither and yon in an aimless and indecisive way across Jasper County, Illinois, and on through Lawrence County to join the Wabash. Before the coming of railroads it was declared a navigable stream and numerous flatboats, to carry products downriver, were built on its banks at Blackman's Mill, just south of Charleston.

In early days the dense swampy woodlands along the stream were difficult to penetrate and building of roadways was practically impossible. Settlers did not look upon the region with favor. The densely wooded and swampy region southeast of Newton and beyond the Embarras soon became known as the "Dark Bend", now shortened to "The Bend". It continued to be a neglected region and government surveyors did not come to run section lines there until after Illinois became a state. In fact, their surveys were not completed until 1839. None of this land was sold until the forties and very little of it until the mid-forties. Nevertheless, it did not remain entirely unpeopled.

It attracted a curious lot of settlers, more properly called squatters, who often came to avoid the "long arm of the law". Among these were robbers, horse thieves, counterfeiters and sundry other law-breakers. The lawless element soon developed a kind of mutual defense fraternity that thwarted the arrest and conviction of its members. It was almost impossible to convict a "Dark Bender". These bands continued to be an annoyance for many years, one group about Chauncey remaining active until after 1856.

This swampland into which men came to squat proved to be an excellent feeding ground for livestock. Horses and cattle thrived on the lush grass, and hogs fattened on the mast of pecan, hickory and oak. These squatters in hiding could thus easily manage for plenty of meat. They simply went into the woods, selected the hog they wanted and shot it, regardless of its ownership. To remove all evidence, they would cut off the head of the pig and toss it away. Tradition has it that Greasy Creek and Hog Jaw Pond came by their names in this way. One man apprehended scalding a headless hog a distinct violation of the law-pleaded that "Yuh jes caint scald a hog good with its haid on." His expression became a colloquialism.

Tree of Heaven Grows Anywhere It Seems, and Grows and Grows!

By ROBERT MANN
Conservation Editor
Cook Co. Forest Preserve

One of the depressing aspects of congested areas in a big city is the almost total absence of trees. Either they are poisoned or they are starved for food, water, and light. Smoke and fumes, dust and grime, refuse and ashes, cinders and salt, make it impossible for our native trees to survive — especially when the soil around them is covered with pavement or packed by trampling feet. But some people living in such neighborhoods, and instinctively yearning for a green growing tree, have found one kind that will thrive even under those conditions: the Ailanthus.

Over two centuries ago, it was brought from China to Europe; and then in the early 1800's, to America. Ailanthus is the Latinized form of "ailanto", a native word of the East Indies, meaning Tree of Heaven, a tree that overtops other trees. Its scientific name is Ailanthus altissima, the latter word meaning "very tall". Its nearest relatives are eight or nine trees and shrubs of Asia and Australia. They belong to the Quassia family named after a tree of the New World tropics, whose wood is used in the drug industry.

Notable for its handsome foliage, the ailanthus is a rapidly growing tree that becomes rather large with a spreading crown of a few main branches and smooth striped bark. The wood is weak, soft and of little use. The twigs are coarse and have exceptionally large leaf scars with a prominent bud in a notch on the upper side. The leaves are alternate, very long, pinnately compound with from 13 to 25 leaflets each, and have a strong unpleasant odor when bruised.

Huge loose clusters of small greenish-yellow flowers appear in June or July, the male and female flowers being on separate trees. The male pollen-producing flowers have such a disagreeable powerful smell that male trees are seldom planted or allowed to grow. The mature female trees bear great masses of seeds that are very showy at first—yellow tinged with crimson. Each seed has an inch long twisted wing at either end. Months later, when brown and dry, they snap off in the wind and spin away like little airplane propellers.

One such tree can scatter seeds for blocks around and, because they seem to be able to germinate and grow almost anywhere, the ailanthus is like a weed. Seedlings pop up in lawns, gardens, hedges, around the foundations of buildings, in roof gutters, and even take root in crevices of brick or concrete walls. Not only that: around one of these prolific trees, a thicket sprouts from its wide-spreading roots. If one is cut down without grubbing out the roots it may grow again, and a year later be ten feet tall.

The ailanthus has become naturalized and now grows wild around many big cities. It is remarkably free from diseases and insect pests. However in the Orient its leaves are the preferred food of the ailanthus silk moth, a near relative of the Cecropia, one of the largest of our native moths. It is raised to produce silk but is far different from the common domesticated silk worm which feeds on mulberry leaves. The silk unwound from its cocoons wears much better than that of the common silkworm but is not so soft and glossy. In China, a man's coat made of ailanthus silk may have been worn by his father and grandfather before him. Its commercial production was tried in France, and in 1861 in the U. S. but abandoned because of the excessive hand labor required.

In America, the ailanthus is the "Tree of Cities."

An Omaha psychiatrist, addressing the American Medical assn.'s annual meeting, said that a man spends his first 65 years preparing for his last 15. He suggested a positive health program for older persons. Some of its items: A balanced diet including more protein, vitamins, and fluids; and less fats and calories; adequate rest of both mind and body; pursuit of interesting and specific recreational activities; a sense of humor; participation in community affairs; continued expansion of knowledge, wisdom and experience.

Cattle, horses and hogs that strayed or were "enticed" into Dark Bend were generally considered lost. Few dared to go there searching for them, apparently believing that they also might be "lost".

Counterfeiters moved in early. One of these, a "Dr." Sulver, came with his son-in-law in the very early 1820s. It was this man, according to legend, who set up the forge which was found many years later on the bank of a branch that has since been known as Mint Creek. Other counterfeiters followed.

The beginning of the end of the reign of the lawless in the Dark Bend country came when Joseph Piquet from Alsace in France prospected for a colony location and selected the region about present day Ste. Marie. Here he bought thousands of acres of land to which his relatives and friends came from Europe to form a "Colonie de Freres", or Colony of Brothers. This group started arriving in the late forties.

About 1850 German immigrants began to settle around the fringes of Dark Bend. Despite the fact that some of their barns and houses burned mysteriously, they stayed and others came until finally, the dark days of the Dark Bend were ended.

Today the land is cleared of its dense forests and drained. Mail boxes beside the gravel roadways bear many German names, those of the people who came to settle and "civilize" the locality that once knew a very different way of life.

Plan Extension of Interceptors In Two Communities

(CNS) — Action to extend big interceptor sewers in Markham and Midlothian was taken by Metropolitan Sanitary district trustees last week.

Advertising for bids for installation of an interceptor in 151st st. between Sacramento in Markham to Waverly ave. in Midlothian was authorized.

Estimated cost of the extension, a branch of the district's Calumet intercepting sewer system, has been placed at $850,000 by district engineers.

It will consist of 7,900 feet of 60-inch reinforced concrete pipe. This will give the sewer line sufficient capacity to handle the flow from future interceptor extensions into Oak Forest and Tinley Park.

Can Control Dread Dutch Elm Disease

By ROBERT MANN
Conservation Editor
Forest Preserve District of Cook County

Dutch Elm disease is the most deadly and destructive of all the diseases that attack shade trees in the U.S. The abbreviation "DED" is appropriate because an elm infected with it is doomed. There is no cure. Also the Asiatic species of elms and two European varieties seem to be somewhat resistant to this disease, no species or variety or hybrid is immune. The American elm — by far our most popular and magnificent shade tree — is extremely susceptible and, each year, untold thousands of them die.

Shortly after the end of World War I, an unusual number of elms were dying in Rotterdam, Holland. In 1922 the cause was identified as a fungus, possibly brought there from Asia, that grows, like bread mold, beneath the bark of elms.

Within 10 years the disease had spread over almost all of Europe. In 1950 the first known case of it in America was found at Cleveland, O. Shortly after, it appeared around New York City, brought in by a shipment of choice elm logs from France. DED is now rampant from New England and the mid-Atlantic states to Kansas, from Michigan and Wisconsin to Tennessee, and in southern parts of Quebec and Ontario provinces in Canada.

In the Chicago region, the first infected trees were discovered in 1954—one in Highland Park and one in Markham. In 1955 we issued Bulletin No. 411 describing DED and the tiny elm bark beetles that carry it from tree to tree. That year 70 cases were found in Cook county, 6 of them in our forest preserves.

Since then our foresters have waged a ceaseless war on these beetles and used all feasible means to prevent the spread of the disease. Despite this, 32 elms in the forest preserves became infected in 1956, 514 in 1957, and 1235 last year. All were removed and burned.

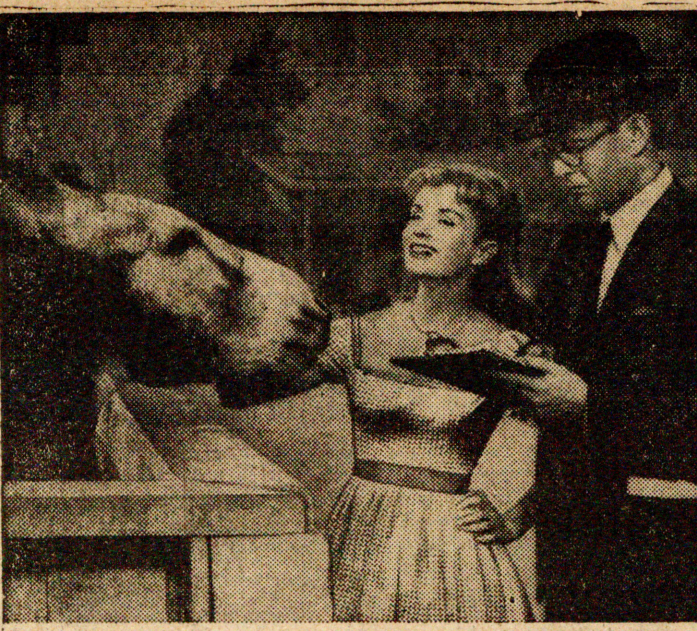

The first symptom on an infected elm is a rapid wilting and curling of the leaves —usually on one or more branches in the upper part of the tree. Then they become yellow, finally brown, and drop off. The bare twigs, when peeled, show brown streaks in the outer sapwood. However, these symptoms are similar to those caused by some other diseases. Positive identification can be obtained only by sending samples of infected twigs to a plant disease laboratory.

If the verdict is DED, then the tree should be cut down immediately and totally burned. Also, all elms within at least a 500-ft. radius should be sprayed thoroly with an insecticide, such as DDT or Methoxychor, to kill the bark beetles that chew into crotches of twigs or small branches and infect them with the deadly fungus. That may be applied with a hydraulic sprayer but many experts recommend a mist blower, maintaining that it provides better coverage and there is less danger to birds and other forms of wildlife.

The battle against DED is not hopeless. Adequate control programs in several suburbs of Chicago have held the losses each year to less than 2% of their total number of elms — about the same as normal losses from natural causes. Those community-wide programs combine three principal jobs: scouting surveys, sanitary measures, and protective spraying.

Scouting detects the infected trees and all potential homes for bark beetles. Sanitation measures include the removal of infected trees, pruning of dying of recently dead branches, and destruction of other breeding places. Spraying is applied to all healthy elms.

We recommend the United States Dept. of Agriculture bulletin on Control of Dutch Elm Disease, obtainable from the Supt. of Documents, Washington 25, D.C.

Scents Elude Description-Must Be Smelled to be Appreciated

By ROBERTS MANN
Conservation Editor
Cook Co. Forest Preserve

A lawn being mowed, hay curing in the sun, the faint elusive scent of freshly turned soil, the woody aroma of the out of doors after a summer shower, or the drifting smoke from burning autumn leaves —these make almost anyone want to stop, shut his eyes, and inhale the fragrances that come on the breeze.

Smells are difficult to express in language. Compared with the wealth of words, symbols and other methods for recording sensations of sight, sound and touch, there are only a few which graphically describe odors.

Odors are detected by special sense cells in two patches, about the size of postage stamps, in the uppermost parts of the nasal chambers. Each sense cell is connected with the brain. With ordinary breathing, scents often go unnoticed. Once alerted, however, we sniff, the sensitive patches are ventilated, and odors seem much stronger. Volatile oils such as those of peppermint and flower essences give our most characteristic scents. Most other odoriferous substances are also soluble in oil. The human nose, altho much less sensitive than a dog's, can detect unbelievably small quantities of such substances —often, in a single sniff, as little as one part in billions.

The woods, meadows, and wetlands of our forest preserves offer a delightful variety of wild fragrances. Some are friendly and soothing, others exhilarating, and many call up memories of scenes and happenings from the distant past. Some of us have strange likes or dislikes among odors for reasons that lie buried in our subconscious minds.

A few of our local wild flowers have characteristic scents but the great majority are either lacking in distinctive odors or else our noses are too crude and untrained to distinguish differences. Wild roses have a delicate sweet fragrance. So do the opening flowers of wild crabapples. But the beautiful white blossoms of the hawthorns smell like canned sardines. The basswood, black locust, elderberry and buttonbush blooms have rich, rather strong perfumes which attract multitudes of honeybees. The grayish-purple flowers of the common milkweed smell sickish and nauseating. Mayapples, when ripe, were dried by our grandmothers to give a pleasant odor to stored clothing

Simultaneous Inhalator Calls Are no Problem

While the Tinley Park fire department has received simultaneous fire calls, two inhalator calls which came in at the same time, midnight Monday, was the first such experience. Always prepared for any emergency, the department's two inhalators were put into use and the victims removed to hospitals.

The two in need of oxygen were, Mrs. Walter Gray, 16733 Harlem ave., and Mrs. Ethel Hundley, 75, 17740 Highland ave. Mrs. Gray is reported improving at St. Frances hospital, Blue Island. Mrs. Hundley, who had need of the inhalator squad on June 17, and had returned home from Hazel Crest hospital, again had an attack, requiring the services of the inhalator squad on Monday.

When the firemen stopped at the Sinclair Service station to refuel trucks after extinguishing a fire in a home at 167th st. and Gaynelle rd., which burned to the ground, a car on which a mechanic was working inside the garage caught fire and was promptly extinguished. Owner of the car is E. T. Gungoll, 177th and 67th ave.

The firemen also extinguished a fire in the forest preserve at 163rd and Central ave. Monday.

In the early morning hours yesterday, the inhalator squad again was busy; this time at the home of William J. Barry, who was given oxygen and taken to Silver Cross hospital Joliet, for observation.

Democrat Clubs Present Cabaret Party Friday

Featured will be two famous ballroom dancers, Les and Barbara, who will present the opening number in the floor show. The dancers, who will also be featured at the Pan-American Games, are being presented by the newly organized Blue Island Democratic club as their contribution to the evening's entertainment. Bud Cannonito, of Tinley Park, is president of the group.

Other acts to be presented are a Parisienne fashion show by the Evergreen Park club, a comedy skit written and produced by the Hometown Democratic club, a magician act from the Gage Park Democratic club, and Roxana Alsberg, folk singer, who will feature a series of political parodies to the "My Fair Lady" music, written by Don Morris of Park Forest.

Rusty Wilson of Country Club Hills and Joan Struck of Evergreen Park, have collaborated on some very original ideas for the party decorations. Al Scheele is chairman of the South Cook County Council of seven Democratic Federation of Illinois clubs.

Mason Warns of Wild Spending

By NOAH M. MASON (Congressman 15th Dist.)

A Democratic congress appears bent on a big spending spree. It has recommended spending more than $11 billion over the amounts set up in the President's budget.

For example, the President recommended $1,650,000,000 for housing and urban renewal; Congress would make it $2.5 billion. The President would allow $2.5 billion for aid to education spread over five years; Congress would make it $10 billion; the President would appropriate $100 million for community facility programs; Congress would make it $900 million.

The President would earmark $50 million for aid to depressed areas; Congress has boosted the figure to $390 million. The President would allocate $200 million for civilian airport construction, Congress would make it $465 million. The President would not have the government contribute any city sewage aid but Congress would contribute $100 million a year for the next ten years.

In summing up the President's recommended spending on these six projects is $4.5 billion; Congress would make it $15 1/2 billion. The cost of the above proposals is staggering. If passed they would mean an average yearly expenditure in crease of $4 billion over the next four years. This would mean more inflation, more taxes or both.

Gold Stock Dangerously Low
A continual drain upon our gold reserves is leading to a critical situation. On April 1, 1959, our gold stock at Fort Knox, Kentucky, totaled $20.

442,000,000—the lowest level since 1947. Against that reserve are the following claims and obligations:

a. Present day net foreign short term claims, $13,815,000,000. b. Pending promised subscription to International Monetary Fund, $1,400,000,000. c. United States currency held abroad (estimated) $3,000,000,000. Total foreign claims and obligations against gold reserve, $18,215,000,000.

The balance left as a base for our present outstanding currency of $138 billion is $2.2 billion—a very small base for our circulating currency.

The figures actually show that most of what we consider our gold stock is not ours at all. Under present conditions it could be withdrawn rapidly.

Public Welfare Programs Costs
Senator Styles Bridges recently called the Senate's attention to the fact that in three major tests so far in this session the Senate had voted more money than the President asked for or wanted.

Direct welfare appropriations have increased from $2.8 billion in 1935 to $10.4 in 1955, and it is estimated that direct welfare appropriations will reach $19 billion in 1960. It is your money that is being spent

A government that owes $285 billion today; that must raise the debt calling again for the second time in a year; that owes more than all the other countries in the world put together—cannot carry such a heavy welfare load. It means increased inflation, bankruptcy repudiation of debt, and finally dictatorship. Is that what the American voter wants?

Some Foreign Aid Truths

1. Foreign aid has not bought the friendship of one nation. After 15 years of foreign aid we are probably the most disliked nation in the world.

2. The money for foreign aid

"It's from the Bureau of Internal Revenue. They say we didn't report any income from Custer's last stand."

is not a gift from our people to foreign peoples. Foreign aid is money extracted from the American taxpayers by confiscatory income taxes and then given by our government bureaucrats to a foreign government to do with it as that government pleases. It has been used to reduce taxes, to pay off debts, to support socialist dictator governments — but not to feed starving people

3. As long as Congress can be persuaded to vote foreign handouts, it cannot very well refuse to vote welfare funds and subsidies for its own people. Therefore wasteful spending and unbalanced budgets follow foreign handouts.

It won't be long now— MORE GAS HEAT is on the way for next winter

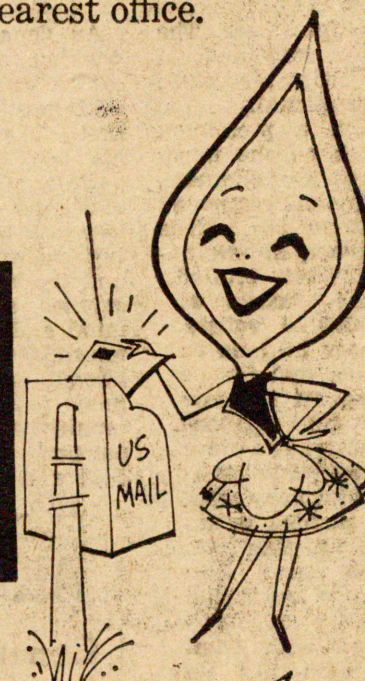

Shortages of gas for home heating in this area are finally coming to an end. Recent Federal and State approval of two new pipelines is an important step toward substantial increase in the supply available for next winter's heating season.

We, at Northern Illinois Gas Company, are very pleased that developments are taking place more rapidly than we anticipated a year or so ago. We know that many who seek this most desirable, low-cost fuel for heating will also be gratified.

Because, since 1946, the supply of gas has been limited, it has been necessary to restrict its use for heating to single family dwellings. Now it appears possible to make gas heating available to multi-unit dwellings and to small businesses and industries in the area we serve.

If you wish to be eligible for a gas heat permit, it would be advantageous to make your request promptly. All installations must be authorized by our Company. Apply in writing (use the convenient coupon below) or visit our nearest office.

Skelgas
PUREST FUEL
YOU CAN BUY

These 4 Exclusive Tests Make Sure:

1. NON-CORROSIVE. Skelgas must pass Lead Acetate Filter test which detects presence of Sulphur.
2. NO FREEZE UPS. There's no moisture in Skelgas because Cobalt-Bromide tests detects "wet" gas, which is rejected.
3. CONSTANT PRESSURE. Assured by vapor pressure test which passes only uniform fuel.
4. COMPLETE COMBUSTION. Mercury freeze test determines presence of butane that would fail to vaporize at low temperatures.

This Skelgas sign is your assurance of the best in gas and gas appliances.

Zions, Reformeds, Holy Names Win

Zion Lutheran picked up where they left off last season by beating the Methodists in the first meeting of the two teams this season, 10-4. This was the first time the teams had met since the Lutherans pulled the only white-wash ever recorded in the Tinley Church softball league a payoff with the Methodists last year.

Reformed church netted its second win in two games and in two years by beating the Nazarenes, 18-12, with a big first inning of 9 runs.

The Catholics knocked heads together for a real slugfest and the Holy Name Society scored a run in the last of the seventh to take the football score, 17-16. The winning run was scored on a sacrifice fly.

Zion scored eight big runs in the first inning and really didn't do much after that time. The Methodist committed six errors in that first inning, but the real clincher was Dale Hartwig's three-run homer in the first frame.

Zion made only eight hits in the contest, but a tight defense has been a real strength to them. Last week they won on eight hits.

The Lutherans have definitely established themselves as the team to beat at this time.

Bill Kostecki had a home run and a double in the Reformed conquest of the Nazarene team.

It was the second straight loss for the Nazarene team, a newcomer to the softball circuit. But it was the second win in two seasons for the Reformed church.

St. George Holy Name overcame a 9-run third inning to beat the Knights in a real exciting hitting contest.

Galina and Butler had three hits for the winning Holy Name. Leonard Fries collected three safeties for the losers.

Wilhelmi, Woods Vie for Honors At Joliet Track

Billy Woods, Kenosha, Wis., speedster, will have to reckon with Joliet's Bernie Wilhelmi if he expects to win a second straight midget auto race feature Saturday night at Joliet Memorial stadium.

Woods shut out Wilhelmi — not once but twice — last week-end in the Jolietan's bid for his second main event victory in a row. Woods won his heat race, just ahead of Wilhelmi, then left the Joliet area far behind in the feature, after Wilhelmi had led in the early laps.

A second victory for either next Saturday night would put the victor near the top in the track point standings.

That spot now is occupied by Bob Tattersall of Streator and Danny Kladis of Chicago, both of whom have two feature victories to their credit. Kladis padded his lofty perch last weekend by finishing second in the main event.

Among the other drivers out for laurels Saturday will be Byron Fischer of Lemont; Bob Tomlinson, Oak Lawn; Bill Hortmeyer, Madison, Wisconsin; brothers Pat and Dellegrazie of Skokie and Dom Dellegrazie of Evanston; Newt White of Lockport, and Jolietans Russ Sweedler, Dick Atkins and Bob Hauck.

On the program will be four heat races, a handicap event and 15 lap semifeature, preceding the 25 lap feature. The time trials begin at 7:30 p.m. and the first race at 8:30.

New Chemicals For Annual War On Houseflies

Houseflies are an annual problem. They spread diseases and annoy both animal and man. But every so often researchers develop new and better insecticides to help farmers battle these pests.

For 1959 housefly control, entomologists at the University of Illinois and Illinois Natural History Survey are recommending malathion, diazinon or korlan.

These residual sprays may be used in all livestock shelters and around the house. Malathion and korlan are relatively safe, but diazinon is more toxic and requires greater caution. Neither diazinon nor korlan should be applied directly to animals. However, malathion is suitable for such use and will control lice and mange on cattle.

Tony Bettenhausen, Tinley race driver, has been having his troubles on the National Championship circuit. At Milwaukee, while electrifying the crowd with the greatest dash they had seen in many years — the No. 81, winner of the Trenton, N.J. one hundred — conked out.

Tony started last and was rolling on toward leader and winner Johnny Thompson, with daring driving on the turns and short straightaways.

A couple weeks ago at Langhorne, Pa., his car was fed the wrong fuel and he had to drop out after a couple laps.

This was the ill-fated Ansted that he was to have driven at the 500. It was the first test after the car had been completely rebuilt.

Rumor has it that Tony will again be driving for John Zink in the very near future.

Football is slowly muscling its way toward some attention on the sports pages. The All-Star squad is prepping for its outing with the pros. It won't be too long until the pros will pack their bags for the training camps.

Baseball is still here, but football will come. Will it? We are still expecting the Braves to lose the pennant chase.

Rich is definitely going to be the strong entry in the SWS football circuit again this fall. You may count on the Park Forest group to give "a going over" to the other members of the league again this year.

Larry Callan's charges will not be weak, but they will certainly miss the tireless charges of the Tatum man. Dennis will be straining to make the Purdue frosh squad.

Callan will have a group of returning lettermen to work with for next year and with help from the lower circles should make it hot for everyone, including Rich.

Over at Sandburg we have the top frosh-soph squad in the conference. The Eagles ought to have the youngsters and should have the team — if not this year — then the next year. Hank Meier's young men might give the needed lift to a team that lost some close ones last year.

The big question? What kind of team will Homewood-Flossmoor have? They will be a fair club — I would imagine. Another team is being brought into the circuit which will put the Rich — undue — emphasis on sports.

Rich spends far too much of the taxpayer's money on football coaches. Their staff must be somewhere near ten or so. How many colleges would be green with envy? Plenty.

Homewood is doling out plenty of good contracts to plenty of coaches.

We like sports, we like coaches, but, better still we want educated young gentlemen and ladies — well prepared for college and life. Football can help to do this job, but not to the tune of a staff of ten men. There arrives in that camp far too much desire to win at any cost. The student begins to lose sight of balance as the school system of Park Forest already has.

Sour grapes you say. Not on your life. Do you one better. We don't like total pignis "sour" education. We need it in its proper place. But our high schools should not follow Notre Dame's example. We expect people and not pros for our tax dollars.

Political! I'll not be running for office on the Republican right wing ticket. No ... SIR!

Two Big Innings Give Orland Babe Ruths Win Over New Lenox

Orland Park Babe Ruthers hit New Lenox with two big innings and went on to easily belt out an 11-4 win.

Orland scored 5 runs in the second inning as they batted around. In the barrage the Orland team hit for three singles, a double and a pair of triples.

New Lenox scored three in the top half of the first inning with help of pitcher Lajcin's two run triple. After that, Merwin of Orland Park settled down and pitched a fine ball game. He struck out 10 New Lenox batters.

Jerry Zinn, Orland shortstop, connected for a home run to complete the scoring for the victors in the sixth inning.

Fredin of New Lenox pulled the sparking play of the day when he raced in to grab control houseflies for three to five weeks; malathion, for one to two weeks. For best results, apply early in the season.

All three of these chemicals are sold under commercial trade names. Be sure to follow directions and precautions listed on the containers.

Altho these insecticides will effectively control houseflies, they are only a supplement to good sanitation. Moist, decaying organic materials, such as rotting straw, manure and garbage, attract houseflies and provide ideal conditions for egg laying and maggot survival. Proper disposal of such material will greatly reduce fly populations.

Will Co. Man On Dairymen Awards List

National Honor Roll Certificates were awarded to 836 Illinois dairy herds last year. In earning the award from the National Purebred Cattle Association, each of these herds produce an average of 400 or more pounds of butterfat per cow for the year.

The highest producing herd was owned by Champion county dairyman Robert Busboom

8 Walks and 5 Errors By Mokena Makes it a Cinch for Manhattan

Eight walks and five errors on the part of the Mokena Babe Ruth club was enough for Manhattan to score 11 runs for an 11-5 conquest of Mokena here last week.

Manhattan scored five runs in the first inning and five in the sixth.

The Mokena pitching was good in the other innings. But it collapsed in the first and in the sixth. Kruzich and Muehler were nicked for the 11 runs by Manhattan. Miller finished up the game and didn't allow any more runs.

Ronnie Badten of Mokena was the big RBI man in the contest with a three-run single in the third inning when Mokena scored four of its five runs.

Griffith Hopes The Third Time Will be Success

Residents of areas located along the shoreline of Lake Michigan will have an opportunity on July 14 to see a young man make his third try to conquer Lake Michigan.

Joe Griffith, 31-year old life guard, will swim from Burnham Park harbor to Michigan City, Ind. Griffith hopes to achieve his lifelong ambition to be the first to swim the 36½ miles successfully, thereby setting two world records — the first to conquer Lake Michigan and the other for open water swimming.

Jim "Courtesy" Moran will again sponsor the event which is gathering considerable interest among Chicagoans and residents of the shoreline areas.

Moran said that Joe's two previous attempts on August 15, 1957 and July 29, 1958, were called off because of rough waters, fog and generally poor weather conditions. Last year, Joe's life was endangered by a severe case of carbon monoxide poisoning from lake crafts, he added.

"Joe was within 10 miles of the Michigan City shoreline last year when we took him out of the water after 28 hours and 38 minutes of swimming," Moran said, "and after careful consideration of anticipated weather conditions, we are confident that the July 14 date will be the day Joe's dream comes true."

Backwood Trails

By ART SCHUMANN

If you are planning a vacation in Michigan this summer don't overlook a canoe float while you are there. No matter which part of Michigan you plan to visit there will be a good float near by. In order to find out where and who to contact, you will want to send for a free copy of "Canoe Trails of Michigan." This booklet is printed by the Michigan Tourist Council with the cooperation of the Michigan Department of Conservation. In the booklet are listed a total of 45 canoe trips that can be made thru Michigan.

Each trip is pinpointed as far as location to put in, distance of float and time necessary to make the trip. Every detail covering the entire trip is included, such as places of rapids, landmarks, camp sites, etc. The booklet lists types of canoes recommended for each float, what your camp outfit should consist of, cooking hardware, repair kits, first aid kits, food supplies, personal outfit and many other pointers that prove invaluable.

Because the cost of lodging is skyrocketing each year, and resorts are becoming more and more commercialized, more average American families are turning to camping and canoe floats. Most camp sites are still in primitive areas and the canoe floats go through places yet untouched by man.

If you are one of those who still enjoy the outdoors in its primitive state, write for a copy of this booklet to: The Michigan Tourist Council, Stevens T. Mason Building, Lansing, Mich. You may find, after reading it over that a canoe trip on next summer's vacation would be just the thing.

Last weekend I pulled out the ole bow and quiver of arrows for the first time in two months. With the bow and arrow deer season in the not too distant future, I thought it was time to start getting the ole eye back in shape.

After traveling around the 24 targets on the Joliet Bo-hunters course in Fairmont, I found out I needed more practice than I thought. Looks like I better make it a habit to get down here at least once a week from here on in. Usually I run into Ed and Dorothy Fitzgerald from Lockport down there. Both are very proficient with the bow and have taken their share of medals.

Ed is in charge of the Bo-hunters grounds committee and is doing a swell job. The club has never looked as good, grass well cut and generally neat as a pin thruout. Ed certainly deserves a pat on the back. Dorothy is active in the club as well, holding the office of secretary and also doing a fine job.

Last week we got a look at the new cabin being built on the Kankakee river by Tom Hartford's family, who live up on Third street. It's well on the way to being a fine summer retreat. Tom showed us the new aluminum boat his family got him for Father's day. It sure is an ideal one. The Hartfords are building next to Jeff Stoltz's cabin, another family that lives up on Third street. They are just a stone's throw from Hank Wilder's place. Looks like I had better get going and build one myself pretty soon if I want to see anything of my neighbors in the summer from now on.

With warmer weather here Lake Will has really been getting a workout. The beach is jammed with swimmers and sunbathers, and picnic tables are at a premium on weekends. The Will county clubs have been doing wonders down there and it's an ideal place to spend the day with the family. Enjoy it and take part in helping with the improvements, fellas, a little bit goes a long way with the help of several sportsmen. Lake Will is an outstanding example of this.

By the way, I wouldn't suggest you teach your youngster how to blow the duck call as early as you teach them to fish. My youngster, 2½ years, wanted to learn how to blow my duck call and now he walks around the house "quacking" all day long.

Chevy Gives You Smarter Style Today...

Don't take it from us—take it from independent experts and from facts and figures that are now a matter of record. POPULAR SCIENCE sums up Chevy's unmistakably modern style this way: "The fact is, in its price class Chevy establishes a new high in daring styling..." This is one more reason your new Chevrolet will bring a higher allowance at trade-in time, as Chevy has over the years. A look at last year's used car prices* shows Chevrolet averaged up to $128 more than comparable models of the other leading low-priced two.

*Guide Book figures of the National Automobile Dealers Assn.

PLUS 5 MORE BIG BESTS OVER ANY OTHER CAR IN CHEVROLET'S FIELD!

Best Brakes. Chevy showed the best brakes of the leading low-priced three in repeated highway speed stopping tests conducted by NASCAR.* No wonder, Chevy's brakes, built for up to two-thirds longer lining life, are the biggest in its field.

*National Association for Stock Car Advancement and Research.

Best Engine. Every motor magazine has given Chevy's passenger car and Corvette V8's unstinted praise. As SPORTS CARS ILLUSTRATED puts it: "Indeed, this device is surely the most wonderfully responsive engine available today at any price."

Best Economy. No doubt about this: a pair of Chevrolet sixes came in first and second in their class in this year's Mobilgas Economy Run—getting the best mileage of any full-size car.

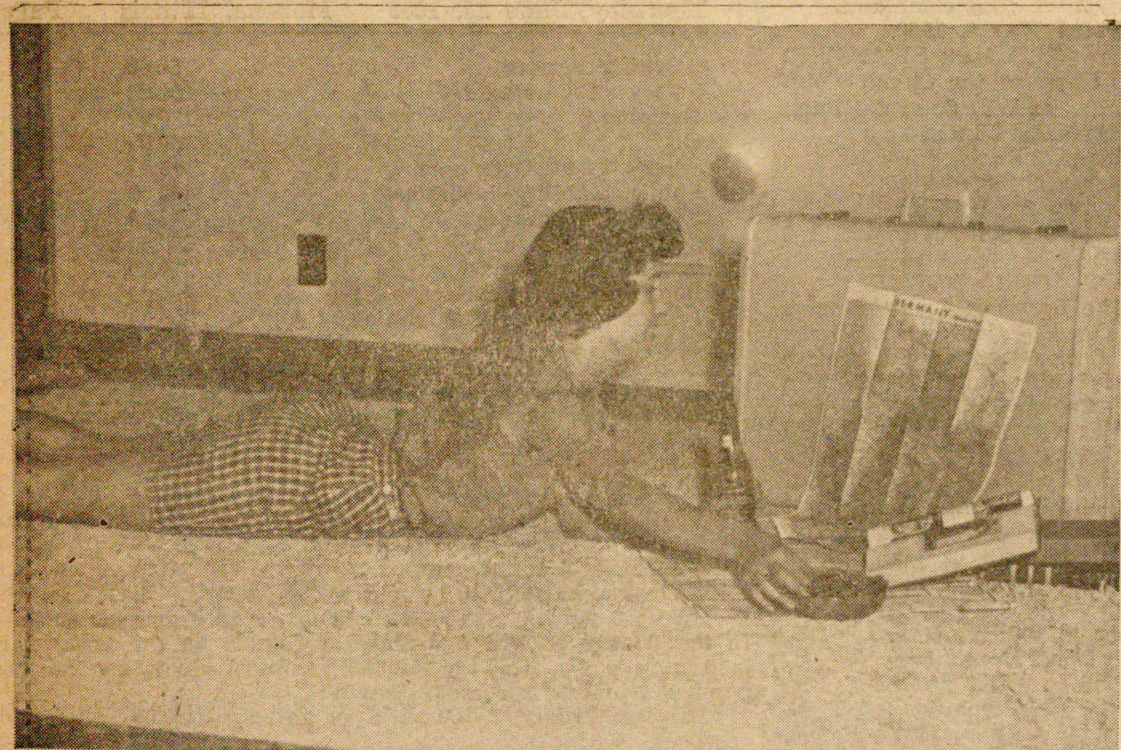

Best Room. Dimensions reported to the Automobile Manufacturers Association make it clear. Chevy's front seat hip room is up to 5.9 inches wider than comparable cars.

Best Ride. No doubt about this. MOTOR TREND magazine sums it up this way: "... the smoothest, most quiet, softest riding car in its price class."

NO WONDER MORE PEOPLE ARE BUYING CHEVROLETS IN '59 THAN ANY OTHER CAR!

IN GERMANY NOW—These pictures of Kay Gersich, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Gersich of Lincolnwood, were taken just before the Lincoln-Way high school junior left for Germany last week to spend the summer.

Arrangements for her stay were made by the American Field Services in charge of the foreign student exchange program. Kay will not attend school but she will gain a first hand knowledge of Germany—West of course—and its people for she will live with a family at Baden, Wuerttemberg.

The Richard Lang family will be her hosts, according to Kay's mother, Mrs. John Gersich. Mr. Lang is the director of a factory. Just what the factory produces was not included in the information given Kay at New York by the American Field Services prior to her sailing, Mrs. Gersich said.

Kay's mother accompanied her to New York and the two had a day or two of sight-seeing before Kay's boat sailed last Thursday. Kay will return in September.

In the top picture Kay is studying a map of Germany and appropriately enough is munching pretzel sticks. In the other picture she appears to be voicing the age-old and universal complaint of all womenkind when preparing to attend a local function or for a journey—"nothing, absolutely nothing, to wear."

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Krapf Hold Open House on 25th Anniversary

By KATHERINE HEISNER
Frankfort 5187

About 450 guests attended an open house at the Manhattan Sportsman's hall on June 14, to mark the silver wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Krapf, held from 2 to 5 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m.

Attendees at the wedding 25 years ago took an important part in the open house celebration.

Flowers arranged by a committee of the Green Garden Snip-N-Snack 4H club, formed the centerpiece of the attractive serving table, at which Mrs. Gladys Mae Krapf Knickrehm and Mrs. Marian Barr Krapf poured during the afternoon. Both served as flower girls at the wedding of the honored couple.

Mrs. Laura Hartman Fehland, maid of honor at the wedding, and Mrs. Margaret Wacker of Manhattan, organist handled the guest book.

The two bridesmaids at the wedding ceremony, poured during the evening hours. They are Mrs. Elda Krapf Johnson and Mrs. Verna Krapf Steinberg, sisters of Mr. Krapf.

Mr. and Mrs. Krapf were married 25 years ago at St. Paul's United Church of Christ, Manhattan. The Rev. William Blasberg and Rev. Christ Schellhase officiated.

Miss Joyce Scheer played soft organ music during the afternoon and evening of the open house. Jerry and Jimmy Jensen of New Lenox, cousins of Mrs. Krapf, also entertained with organ and accordion music.

The Snip-N-Snack 4H club presented Mrs. Krapf with a corsage of ruby-throated orchids and also presented corsages to the former attendants at the wedding.

A buffet dinner was served to all family members and the original wedding party and their families. Ralph Fehland of Monee, who was best man at the wedding, was the toastmaster.

The 4H club also presented a "This is Your Life" skit, during which Miss Beverly Torok sang "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer" and other songs reminiscent of the time when Mrs. Krapf was teaching grade school and music. Mrs. Krapf was a leader of the 4-H club for the past 18 years. The club presented the couple with a five-piece silver service, a gift from former and present 4-H members. Many other gifts were presented to the honored couple. In charge of these was Mrs. Howard Barr, sister of Mrs. Krapf.

The two original groomsmen at the wedding were Earl Bettenhausen, who assisted with arrangements during the reception, and Richard Derr of Melrose Park, who was unable to attend because of illness. The only person in the original wedding ceremony unable to be present, Mr. Derr sent a congratulatory message.

Funeral services for Harold A. Bankow, 53, who was born in Green Garden township, were held Saturday at the Harris Funeral Home, Joliet. The Rev.

65,000 More Householders Can Heat With Gas Next Winter

Northern Illinois Gas Co. began mailing heating permits this week to approximately 65,000 residential applicants who were on the utility's waiting list May 31.

According to H. A. Diekmann, NI-Gas' vice president in charge of sales, these applicants will have one year to install heating equipment. At the same time Diekmann said that the Illinois commerce commission had approved the company's plan to modify its space heat restriction order.

The changes will permit NI-Gas to make natural gas available on a limited basis for heating multi-unit dwellings, schools, churches, municipal buildings, commercial and industrial establishments. Natural gas for heating has not been made available to these customers since the restriction order went into effect in 1946.

Diekmann said the company was finalizing plans to administer this phase of the modified restriction order.

"All who are interested in heating apartment buildings, businesses, etc., should contact the gas company in writing if they desire to be listed," Diekmann explained.

"All installations must be authorized by NI-Gas," Diekmann continued. "Applications can be made at any of our stores or offices by using the coupon that will appear in an advertisement soon to be published."

lished in local newspapers."

NI-Gas also obtained permission from the ICC to furnish natural gas for all new single family residences, where application is made after May 31, if heating equipment is installed by the end of 1959. Diekmann emphasized that all those building new homes this year who have not applied, still must request the company for gas heat and receive a permit before making the installation.

Confidence that Midwestern Gas Transmission company's 360 mile pipeline from Tennessee to Joliet will be completed in time for use next winter prompted NI-Gas' decision to send out permits at this time. NI-Gas will receive 60 million cubic feet daily as its share from this new pipeline.

Permits were mailed out earlier this year to 41,500 homes on the company's waiting list as the result of the 50 million cubic feet daily supply it will obtain from Northern Natural Gas Company thru an East Dubuque to DesPlaines pipe line NI-Gas is now constructing.

When present permits have been acted upon, about 390,000 of NI-Gas' approximate 640,000 residential customers will be heating with natural gas. This compares with 29,000 who heated with gas when the restriction order first went into effect.

LITTLE BERTHA, the world's foremost performing baby elephant, will be featured in the Adams Bros. and Seils Bros. circus when it comes to Tinley Park Saturday, June 27. Other old-time circus acts will include jugglers, tumblers, clowns, aerial acts, wire walking wonders and ten trained animal acts. The circus is being sponsored by the Lions club and will be located on 171st st. east of Bert Fulton school. There will be two complete performances, one in the afternoon and the other in the evening.

Commandery Invites Public to Installation

Joliet Commandery No. 4, Knights Templar, will hold its annual installation of officers tonight at 8 o'clock in the Masonic temple, 129 E. Jefferson street, Joliet. The public is invited.

Robert B. Dolhof, an executive in the American Institute of Laundering, will be installed as commander. Other elected officers are Forrest L. McAllister, generalissimo; Raymond A. Lesovsky, captain-general; John Z. Argoudelis, senior warden; Herbert C. Long, junior warden, Edward A. Blatt, retiring commander, will serve as treasurer, and Howard L. Mead, recorder.

Dr. Elmer A. Albers, Lockport, a past commander, will be the installing officer. Members of his staff will be Howard M. Snapp, Jr., past grand commander of Illinois; Stanley A. Junjek and Henry S. Balle, both past commanders of Joliet commandery.

The past commander's jewel will be presented to Blatt by Lester J. Love, a former commander.

Jeanne Odom will be the soloist and Ingram M. Irving, the organist. At the reception to follow in the ballroom on the second floor, Frances Wood Irving will play organ selections.

Tinley Delegation To Attend Jehovah Witnesses Meeting

Robert L. Miley, presiding minister of Jehovah's Witnesses announces that the Tinley Park congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses has been invited to attend a four-day convention to be held July 9 thru 12 at Roberts Municipal Stadium, Evansville, Ind. Mr. Miley will head the local delegation of about 45 persons.

Red Spiders Raise Hob With Evergreens

By JAMES FIZZELL
Cook Co. Ass't Farm Adviser

Several species of mites that feed on evergreens are commonly called Red Spiders.

These mites are small, active creatures that look like specks running about and feeding on the leaves. They range in color from pale yellow, to red and almost black, with or without darker spots. The immature mites have only six legs, but after molting, the adults all have eight legs. The eggs, laid on the underside of the leaves hatch in about one week in warm weather, and a generation may be completed in two weeks.

Mites feed by rasping or by piercing the leaves of the plant and sucking the juices and chlorophyll. A plant thus damaged will be grayish in color with leaves and even whole areas dying. This damage is due, not to the voracious feeding of a few mites, but to the feeding of the tremendous population which quickly builds up.

Red spiders feed on junipers, spruce, pines, cedars, and arbor vitae but are not found on yews.

Plants that are likely to be attacked by red spider should be inspected frequently to detect and control the mites before damage occurs. A quick and simple way to inspect a plant is to shake a few branches over a piece of white paper. If mites are present, they can be seen running about on the paper when it is held in a bright light.

Red spider can be controlled by spraying the plants with Aramite 15W at the rate of one heaping teaspoon to a gallon of water. One thorough application should give control thruout the summer.

Malathion 25W at the same rate is also effective but repeated applications are necessary, as this material will injure some types of junipers.

SUMMER HAS ARRIVED

Summer has arrived—officially.

It came tripping into the spotlight on the seasonal stage in these parts at 10:50 p.m. last Sunday night, daylight saving time, to the plaudits of those who like short sleeves, open collars, lemonade, picnics, baseball, gardening and outdoor pursuits in general and do not mind perspiring.

How long summer will remain is always a question in these latitudes. Officially it is supposed to stick around until the autumnal equinox, which this year arrives at 2:09 p.m. Sept. 23. But summer is a fooler.

There are years when the temperature climbs high and stays there, apparently forgetting there is room for the mercury to go down. That is the kind of summer when we poor mortals sing its praises in June, become somewhat dubious in July and by the time August comes we crawl about weak, wan and wornout as we go about our appointed tasks and wishing for the cold and snow that last winter we hoped never to see again.

Then there are summers when the east and north winds blow, and there are more cold and damp days than sunny, pleasant ones—or so it seems. And then we go about with long faces and confide to each other that we are fools indeed to live in such a climate.

Strangely enough there are persons who really enjoy hot weather, and we mean hot.

Like those days when the sun bears down with brassy brilliance out of a cloudless sky and the mercury gets up to the hundred mark or over and the nights stay hot and humid.

It is small consolation for the most of us that such type weather is good for the corn. Of course, even the corn can't take it if such temperatures come too early.

Our favorite summer weather is the kind we had last week. Blue skies with fleecy white clouds and a sensible thermometer that registers temperatures in the 70's or low 80's in the day time and dropping down into the 60's for sleeping purposes.

We had some 90-degree days in May and more of the same in early June and there were days when it was 100 or better in the sun. This has given rise to the suspicion among some people that this summer, like last winter, will be a genuine stinkeroo!

Regardless of how hot it may get there isn't very much one can do but take it. It is a mortal certainty that one can't spend all his hours in air conditioned comfort. So one just has to take it.

There is one consolation about real hot weather—there is no snow to shovel and the grass doesn't grow too fast.

So relax, don't hurry, don't worry. Pretty soon it will be cold again and we will be wishing for summer, so enjoy it while you may.

DENTAL HEALTH

Fluoridation of a community water supply is shaping up as the best public health bargain of all time.

For less than 15 cents per person per year, the ravages of tooth decay are being reduced as much as 65% in communities thruout the U.S.

The cost of a single filling would pay for the fluoride for one person for many years.

The late Dr. John G. Frisch, of Madison, Wis., as chairman of the fluoride committee of the Wisconsin State Dental Society, which pioneered in the procedure, used to say:

"There can be no question as to whether a city can afford it, but whether any city can afford to be without it."

There are to date more than 1100 communities which have rallied under the banner of fluoridation to protect the future health of their children's teeth.

In many of these communities, the leadership came from the public — women's clubs, PTA's, churches, labor unions, civic groups. They wrote letters to health departments and city officials. They formed citizens' committees.

They were able to show that adjustments of the fluoride content in a water system was feasible from an economic standpoint. Cost of equipment has been found to range from several hundred dollars for a small town to several thousand dollars for a medium-sized city.

From an engineering standpoint, according to a water works assn., the mechanism of adding fluorides to the water supply is no more involved than adding chlorine.

Fluorine is not a medicine any more than chlorine. It is not a cure-all. It cannot eliminate tooth decay. It can do nothing about teeth that are already decayed. It is a preventive which in some communities has reduced the incidence of tooth decay by two-thirds.

Where objection to fluoridation of a water supply has been raised, the principal objectors usually have been drugless healers, members of a religious group who believe fluoridation constitutes medication and those who fear an economic threat to the sale of such items as vitamin and mineral preparations.

According to the American Dental Assn. those opposing fluoridation for the most part have used "false, misleading and emotional charges" based on "undocumented and unscientific supporting material."

On Second Thot

By GLENN F. LOGAN

John W. Dienhart, publicist for the outfit that publishes the World Book Encyclopedia, is working the calendar angle again. When the minute hand registered midnight on May 31, Mr. Dienhart probably looked at his watch and wrote a memo to himself.

"Get out piece on June," he may have written, "brides, longest day, beginning of summer, graduations, vacations et cetera, et cetera."

The piece that came to our notice was slugged "Women's Editor," so naturally was devoted to brides, weddings and kindred subjects.

The opening paragraph shows Mr. Dienhart to be a realist and he dispenses with that old fiddle faddle about the girl being the pursued.

"The American bride sweeps down the aisle," Mr. Dienhart writes, "with all the self assurance of a modern Diana returning from the hunt with a stag slung over her shoulder."

That may not be pretty reporting but it's factual.

He goes on to say that this was not always the victory celebration of the female... that once she was, "at best, a marketable commodity... and at worst, fair game for any strong armed marauder."

Back in the days when a man went out hunting for a wife—and the word hunting is used literally—he usually took a friend along to run interference for him or hold off pursuers in a rear guard action. This companion is said to be the forerunner of the modern best man. If the invaded territory was known to be a tough district the wooer probably took a number of companions on the trip and these re-inforcements have hung on in the form of ushers.

Sometimes the groom had to hide out for a time until the girl's family got tired of looking for them, Mr. Dienhart says, giving rise to what is now called the honeymoon.

It's different today. The families, bride's or groom's, are the ones that hide out in the hope that the couple will find a place of their own.

Buying wives left them with fewer bruises but some of the offers of hard bargaining bridegrooms must have lacerated the pride and feelings of prospective brides.

The word wedding, according to Mr. D. and his W.B.E., comes from the Anglo-Saxon term "wed," which was security for the purchase price of the bride. And "giving the bride away" is said to date back to the time when a father gave up custody of his daughter when the bridegroom had paid the full purchase price.

Mr. D. does not go into the question of dowry, but the man who figured out the system under which he got the bride and money too, probably was a descendant of the guy that invented interest.

Tossing rice at the departing bride couple, the piece says, may have originated as a bribe to propitiate any evil spirits and keep them away from the newlyweds.

If one could check back and really get at the facts he would probably find that this story about evil spirits that could be bought off with rice was started by a person who had rice to sell. And after it had been thrown he probably swept it up, sifted out the dust and sold the rice again.

Could have been the bride's father.

Countryside News and Views

By WILLIAM F. WHITESIDE
Cook Co. Ass't Farm Adviser

Farmers and home owners, as well as nurserymen and florists, have to wage a relentless war against insect pests. Quite a number of calls have been received in this office this week with regard to cut worm damage to corn fields. The first symptom you will see in the corn field is a plant that is wilting. If you move the soil away from the base of the plant, you will probably find that cut worms have destroyed a portion of the stalk. You might even find the worm still near the base of the plant. They are usually gray to black in color and from one-quarter to one inch in length.

If you notice damage in your corn field and find that all of the worms are of large size, it will probably not pay to treat, since these larvae will not continue eating on the corn plant very long. If you find quite a number of the smaller worms, it will probably pay to treat with 1/2 lb. of dieldrin. This should be applied as a spray with drop nozzles to concentrate the spray at the base of the plant. Use as much water per acre as possible. Immediately after spraying, go thru the field with a cultivator and throw some dirt on top of the spray.

The onion maggot is still present in great abundance in onion fields. Spray programs to control the onion maggot adult should be continued. Use one-third pound diazinon, one pound malathion, or two pounds of DDT.

-All 4-H members who plan to attend 4-H camp should return their health certificates to this office right away.

Equip your summertime outdoor lighting sockets with "bug" lamps. These yellow-tinted bulbs do not actually repel bugs. They simply furnish light that you can see with, but the bugs cannot.

Extra riders falling off and being run over is the second largest cause of tractor deaths. Children aren't the only victims, but they are involved much too often. In each case the adult who gave permission to ride thought he was doing the child a favor. He would have done anything to protect the child except refuse him a ride on the tractor.

Business and Finance

By MAURICE P. ANGLAND

The increase in interest rates resulting from demand for money and the Federal Reserve policy of tightening supply of money to control inflation, will have a considerable effect on residential home building as mortgage money supply contracts.

Thru May of this year, privately built housing starts were at the annual rate of 1.38 million or slightly more than that of 1950 which was the previous all time record high year. Dollar value of new dwelling units reached $6.2 billion in the first five months of this year as against less than $4.6 billion a year earlier.

Home construction has been one of the main supports of all boom periods since World War II and therefore when this phase of the economy runs into trouble, its effect will be felt in many sectors of the economy.

This is one of the points at which efforts of the Federal Reserve, to control inflationary tendencies will pinch the economy. In addition home construction costs have been rising steadily for ten years. As compiled by Engineering News-Record, total construction costs have been rising at the rate of 5 per cent per year since 1949.

Some qualified persons in commenting on the increase in interest rates for government bonds and general tightening of the money market, express the belief that the effect may be less than hoped for by the government. These commentators observe that at present there is no general demand for products, that is pushing against our ability to produce with present industrial capacity.

It is rather generally agreed that since the 1960's will bring a considerable business boom, but we can be quite sure there

Homewood Savings Declare Dividend Of 3 1/2 Per Cent

At the June meeting of the board of directors of the Homewood Savings and Loan Assoc., a semi-annual dividend of 3 1/2 per cent per annum was declared on all savings accounts as of the end of June.

An estimated $200,000.00 will be distributed at mid-year to present savers in the Association, which continues its upward dividend trend from previous distributions of $177,000 last December and $164,000 in June a year ago. Total assets passed the $13 1/2 million mark in June.

During the first half of 1959 another 600 savers have joined the Association's savings family. Total savings have reached a new high of $11 1/2 million. Investors consist of individuals, joint tenants, trusts, and corporations. Association savings accounts are insured to $10,000 by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation which is celebrating a quarter century of operation this month.

will be a period of business slow down before the real move to another period of steady rise in industrial activity takes place. There are always periods of correction to bring various factors of our economy into balance after an extended period of high business activity.

The so-called glamor stocks have risen to a point where they have been discounting favorable factors for some time ahead and investors have become quite selective in their purchases. Some of the utilities which are what are known as "defense" stocks and also with growth potential have been lagging behind the market. Since the utilities are always big borrowers due to their steady and increasing growth, the increase in money rates is having an effect on the current prices for their stock. Some would seem to offer attractive yield at present prices.

Investment services point out that industrial expansion must anticipate increased demands rather than follow the demand, but that corporations are prone to delay expansion expenditures in periods of poor business. The projected industrial expansion as of the first of the year, is
